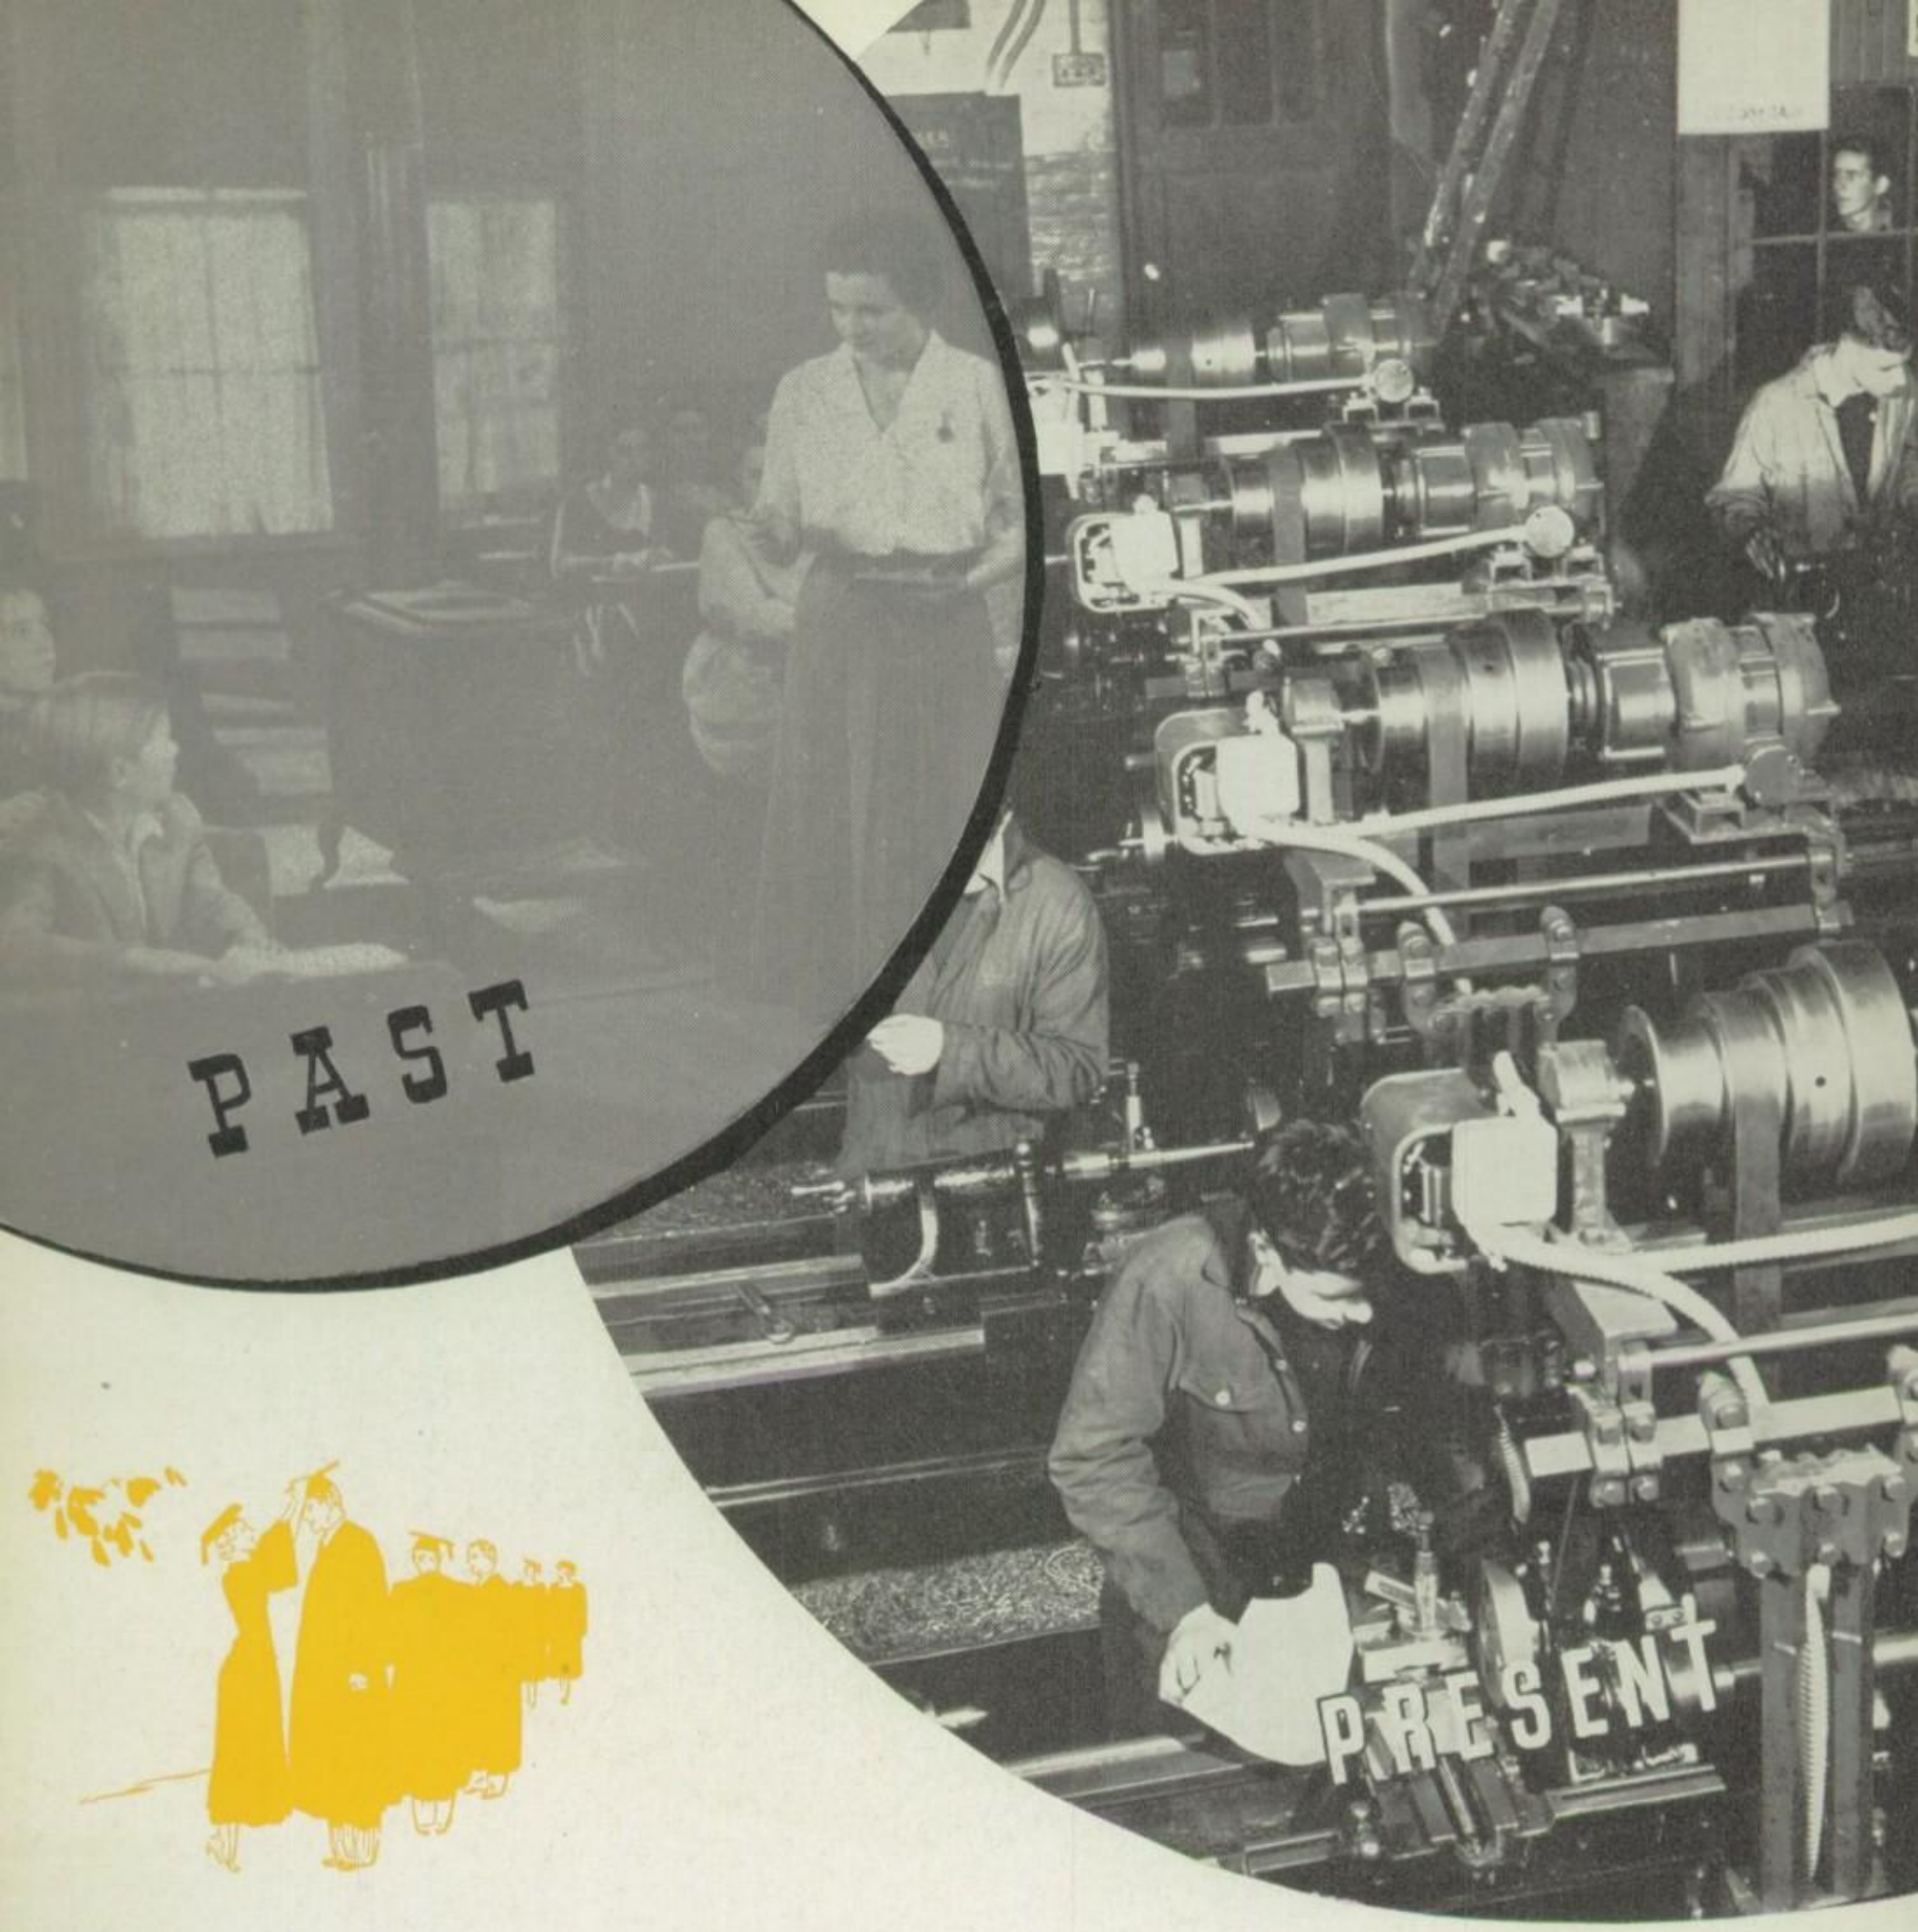
as Portrayed at Lakewood High School



AS THE TWIG IS BENT . . . SO GROWS

In America the function of high school education is to receive the twig of youth and produce the tree of man. To form the best of men, a high school education must be sufficiently flexible and progressive to adapt its tempo and activity to meet the needs of a rapidly changing world.

THE TREE . . . . . .

The counsellors, too, must hold a vision of the future and strive to prepare today's youth for the problems of tomorrow. The 1940 Cinema of Progress shows that Lakewood High School has in the Past fulfilled the requirements of progressive ideas and will continue to do so in the Future.

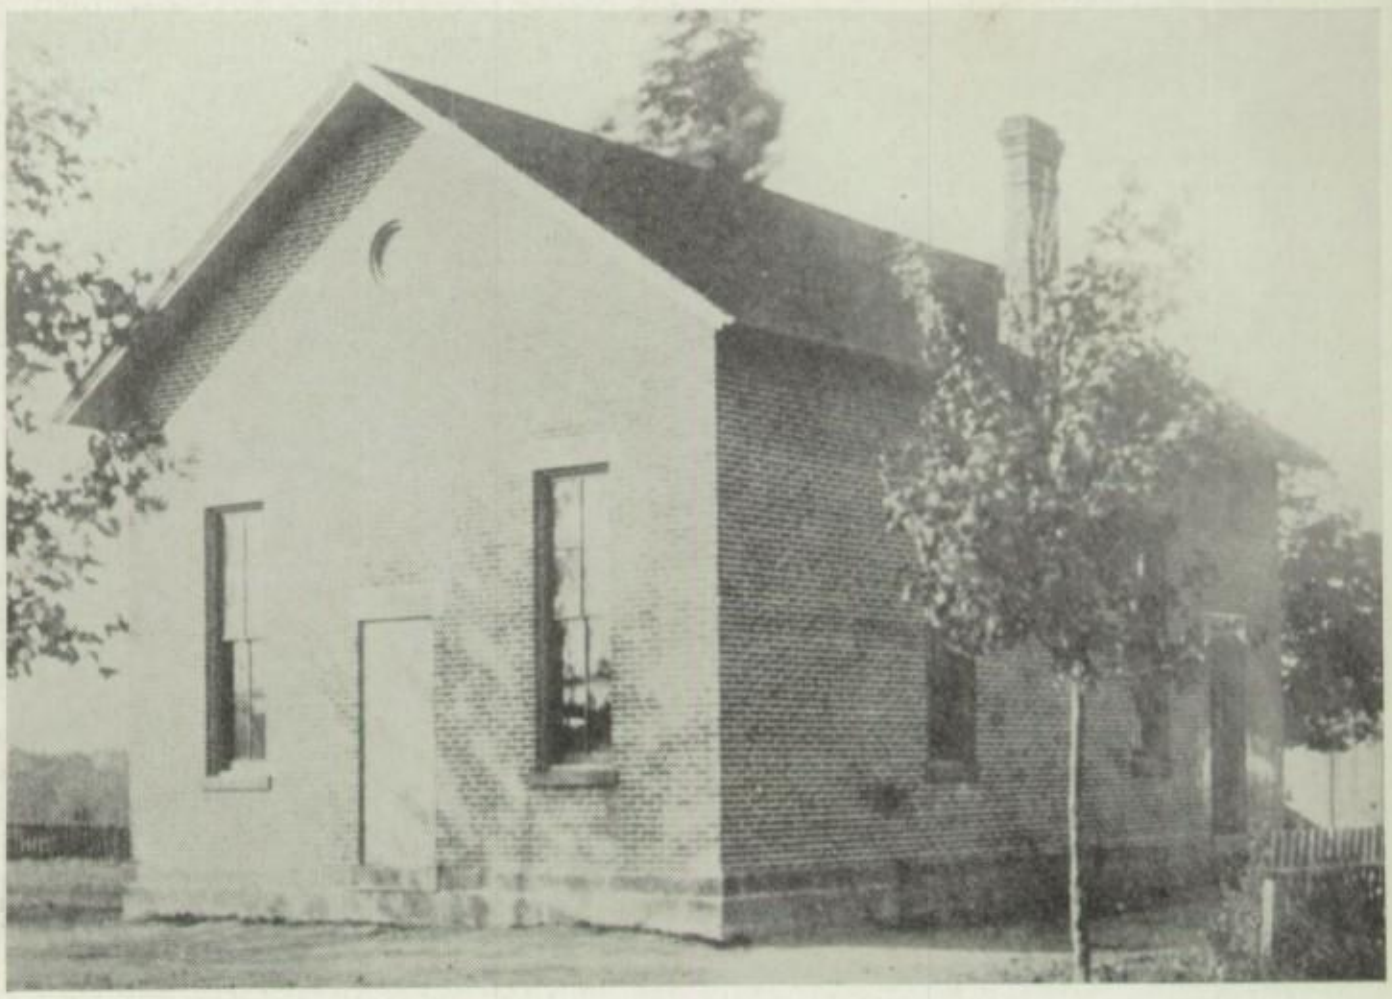
we draw from YESTERDAY

To Learn Today . . . . For a Better Tomorrow

To draw from yesterday for a better today is Progress. To show this progress is the theme of the Past Section. Lakewood schools had their beginning in a one-room shack under the guidance of a single teacher. Since then we have made great advancement. Today we know, from past experience, that well-equipped school buildings and trained teachers are two of the basic requirements for a superior educational system. We have learned that it is necessary to stress social life as well as academic study for a well-rounded education. These are but a few of the things that the past has taught us. This section attempts to illustrate the Past which has been a determining factor in the Present.

Ouch!

Nathan Parshall, an educated carpenter, taught the first group of prospective scholars.



This little red schoolhouse was the seat of many important happenings in the 1830's.

Nathan Parshall, a shiftless carpenter, held the first class in a back room of the Wagar home in 1829. He was quickly replaced by a succession of traveling teachers who taught the "Three R's" to aspiring students. School was held only two or three months a year, and the boys stopped going when they were old enough for farm work. In 1871, the citizens met and voted for the first separate school district of Rockport. Meanwhile the old school house, built about 1830, was seeing its last spelling bees and singing schools, for the small structure could not fill the needs of the growing community. The seat of learning was therefore moved to the red brick building which is now the Board of Education. Over the entrance may still be seen the inscription, "East Rockport Central School, 1879." In addition to reading, spelling, and writing, no scholar was required to study more than two of the following subjects: geography, arithmetic, and grammar. The marks ranged from one to five, and if Johnny went home with a grade of one, he saw the inside of the family woodshed. In 1882 the first high school was instituted in the same building under the principalship of Mr. William Lippert, who also taught all the classes. He tells some interesting sidelights of the life of young Lakewood. "There is no model for Lakewood's early days. Scarcely any home was equipped with electric lights, and there were no sidewalks or paved streets. Almost every activity group of today was not even known sixty years ago. But we did have nutting expeditions and masking parties which the girls enjoyed. However, the greatest event occurred when Mary Hutchins was the first to finish her high school course of study."

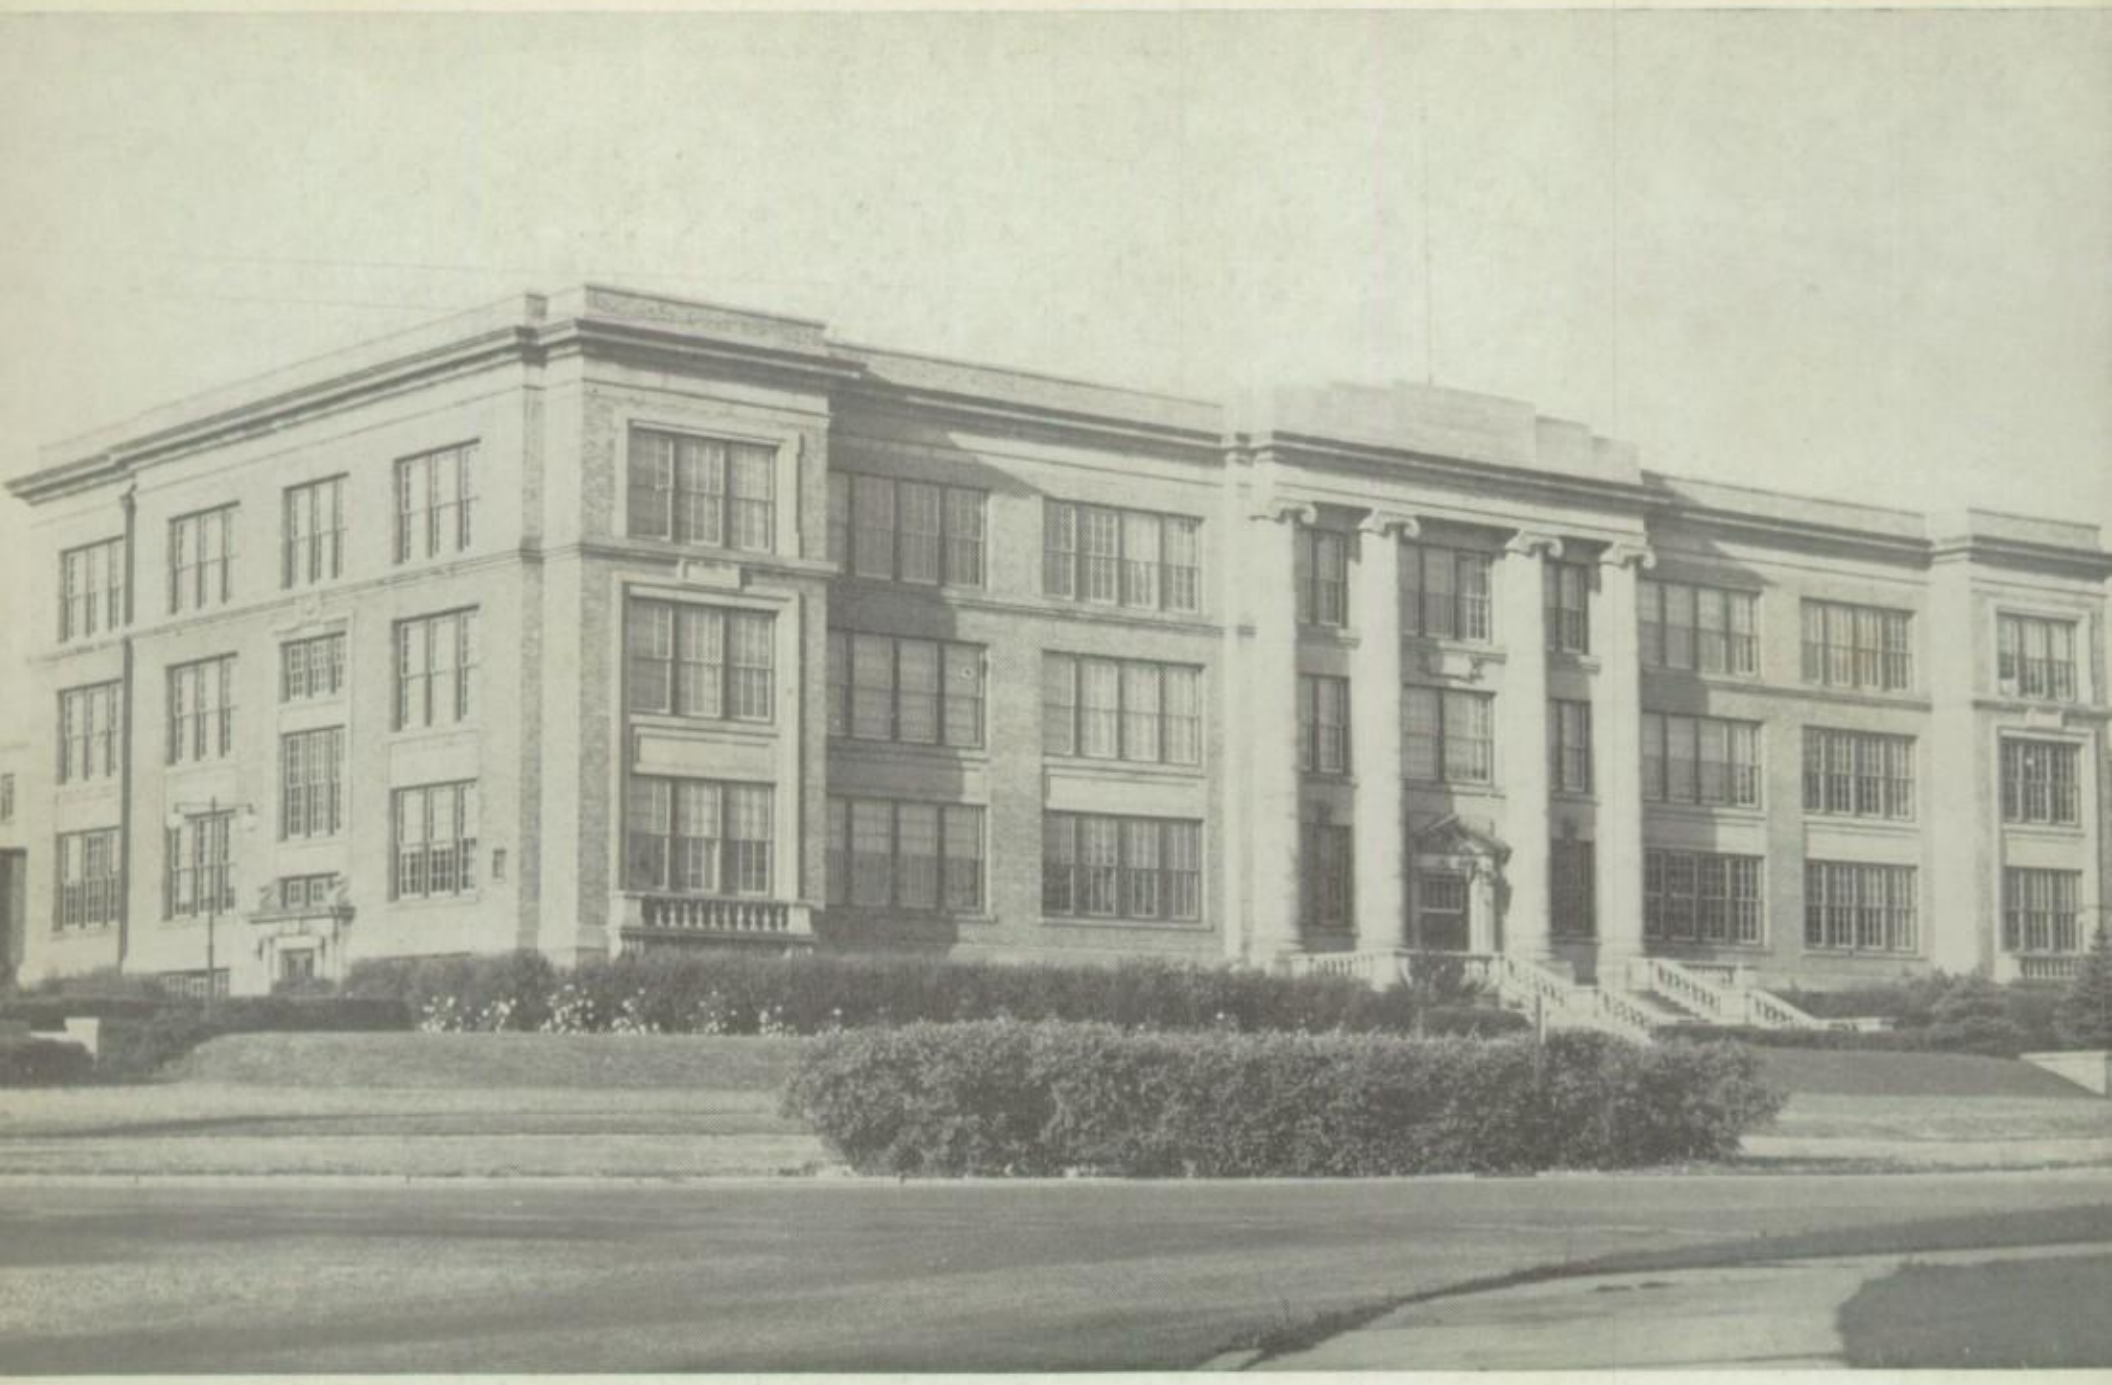
Pupils of the "Gay Nineties" distinctly remember the "report of marks" card and the dedication program of the new high school.

When the pupils numbered fifty, plans for a new high school were introduced. The taxpayers raved about the size of the proposed building, which they were sure would never be filled. Nevertheless a huge castle-like school was built. No study halls and all morning classes were the attractive features. Girls sports were offered for the first time, basketball, volley ball, and hockey being the favorites. However, the sport of the day was bicycling, and for a small toll fee, the students could ride up and down the dirt road in front of the school.



Lakewood High School as it was built in 1918 and still appears.

The modern conception of the "satsfactory girl."

Wilson school lasted exactly fifteen years, for in 1917 plans were studied for a high school to accommodate two thousand students. Unfortunately a flu epidemic and a shortage of labor delayed the opening until October 7, 1918. Zero hours were not issued in those days when the punishment for "skipping" was three hours kitchen police or two days digging in the garden. The dress of the "satisfactory" girl, as regulated by the Girls Student Council, consisted of a middy and skirt of modest length and fullness, while the model boy wore a black Windsor tie and a high collar.

What's the matter
With Lakewood High?
Whee-ee, Lakewood!

Just as the clothing styles have changed, so has athletics. Uncoached and retarded by a smallpox epidemic, the first football team played without helmets, shoulder pads, or cleats. No goal posts were used, for victory was claimed when one team succeeded in landing the ball behind the opponents' line of defense. In 1924 our "Golden Tornadoes" reached the peak by winning every game. Girls athletics must not be overlooked for in spite of their black knee bloomers and lisle stockings, they performed remarkably well in both basketball and volley ball.

We Draw from Yesterday . . . .

to learn TODAY . . .

For a Better Tomorrow

We have come a long way from the "straight-laced" past to the giddy present. Just as the times have changed, so have our ideas. Twenty years ago the ringing of the bell at the close of classes sent the students home. Today the closing bell is merely a sign that it is time for extra-curricular clubs to begin. Teachers no longer employ the "hickory stick" method, but now permit informal discussions led by a student chairman. Girls sports called "carnal" in grandmother's day are very popular now. In the Present section we show the school as it is today: the clubs as an outgrowth of the classroom activity, and the differences between yesterday and today.

The Administration of Today's School

Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Bowman

Schools as known to the general public, are usually thought of in terms of teachers, students, books—and enormous piles of home work. However, behind the shifting panorama of the schools is the administrative department, a department that makes it possible for each school to work smoothly and efficiently. The management of the Lakewood school system is entrusted to the Board of Education. A staff of six departmental advisers assist Superintendent George A. Bowman, who is now in his seventh year in this position. Mr. George W. Grill acted as assistant superintendent until the beginning of this year, when he finished twenty years of service with the Lakewood schools to undertake a position in the Cleveland Clinic. Lakewood High School's Administrative Department is headed by Principal John C. Mitchell, who is the authority for all business that concerns the school and the general counselor for the pupils. Outside of school, Mr. Mitchell finds interest in gardening and golf, and, like most educators, he enjoys reading. As a football and basketball fan, he cheers at every school game. Our assistant principal is Mr. Robert L. Meeks, who arranges the schedule of classes and the students' individual programs. Touring and the teachers' co-operative movement, which attempts to balance the class work among teachers, share his spare time. The office of Miss Lucy Helen Kimball, dean of girls, is a virtual bee-hive filled with buzzing students. She is also the faculty adviser for the Student council and the Friendship Club. The Lakewood Parent-Teacher Association has chosen her for its vice president and the representative for Lakewood High School. Our friendly registrar, Miss Edith Sigler, also instructs the entire office staff.

English Department Is Largest at Lakewood

Good English doesn't make the man, but it does contribute much toward his success; "for one who can explain himself may command what he wants." However, English is a coat which fits only those who have the size requirements of good speech, correct grammar, and effective expression. Following the advice of the adage, "practice makes perfect," the department offers courses in correct English, creative expression, and literature appreciation. Future "news-hawks" or "stars of stage and screen" may also improve their talent by courses in journalism, dramatics, public speaking and short-story writing.

The Cinema Staff Works, Laughs, and Worries

While the "Times" Marches on

Early in September the new editor, having whiled away the summer in dreaming of plans for the 1940 Cinema, assembled the remnants of the previous staff and looked over the new material. The result last fall was an excellent staff which soon found that a year-book can not be thrown together in a couple of weeks. It has been a long, arduous task for all. Activity really began in November, when the fifteen-week subscription campaign was launched. The success of this campaign was due partially to the efforts of the publicity staff, mainly to the work of the circulation and filing staffs. Charged with all phases of Cinema business was the business manager with his assistant. Early photo schedules enabled the photography staff to include all seniors in the activity shots. In the meantime, the senior editors, representing the January and June graduating classes, assembled their senior sections. Posters and artwork in the book were produced by the art staff. The literary staff, not waiting for inspiration, has learned to produce on schedule. The photo index staff has created a new feature, the index, which may be found in the advertising section. Is the book worth all that it costs in time and effort? IT IS!

Emling, Kintner, and Doty were on the Cinema ad staff. Doty later became publicity manager.

Blair, Stinchcomb, Southard, and Hutton publicized the Cinema, while Conant, Robbins, and Wendling took care of subscriptions.

Queen and Graeff were in charge of the senior section.

The Lakewood High Times

. . . . Keeps Lakewood Up-to-Date

The headman in the High Times office officially is the editor-in-chief. He makes assignments, dashes off stories, proof reads, and claims he does everything and anything which pertains to meeting the press deadline. Actually he has two associate editors covering the sports and editorial pages, who relieve him from some of his worries. There is a staff of eighteen regular reporters, furiously rushing about the school, and many more "cubs," snooping to scoop or to cover embarrassing situations. The staff of representatives, one from each home room, is directed by the business staff, which also keeps the books and handles the money and mailing. The reps deliver the Times every Friday morning. In "budget plan" home rooms, each student secures all the publications of the coming semester at no additional expense and contributes approximately three cents per issue in advance. While the home room representatives are hard at work, the staff meets to discuss the paper while it is still hot from the presses. Perhaps a certain cut is especially good or the captions aren't snappy enough. Whatever questions may arise, they are thrashed out in discussion. By constructive criticism offered in these meetings, each member is helped to improve the next issue. This year a modern style of type, more attractive headlines, and more and better feature articles have been added to the parade of improvements. The Times staff attributes much of its constant advancement from a bi-monthly newspaper in 1920 through twenty years of existence, to the fact that from editor down to the "cub" reporters, each member has held to the goal—"The Times tells the truth!"

Scriblerus Club

Anxiously these trembling authors submit their favorite pen snatches to a judicial board of five students. After careful consideration, the four best compositions are selected to be read at the next meeting of the Scriblerus Club. The brilliant lights of fame and fortune seem far away when the session of criticism begins, for the members mince no words. Although the wastebasket is always handy, many of the best works find their place of honor in the Scriblerus scrapbook, which contains a cross-section of the organization's history in writing.

Whitman Club

Whitman, at first bitterly criticized and then praised as a poet, is the namesake for the poetry appreciation club. Gentlemen have long fled the ranks of this club, thus making possible a pleasant prelude of sipping tea and munching cookies. But after the refreshments members seriously discuss the merits of a poet's style. No, they do not confine themselves to just one poet, but discuss many varied types. After graduation Whitman members have at their finger tips an enjoyment and understanding of the poetry composed by masters.

Speakers Club and English Council

Lower picture—Doty reads the rules to Stetzelberger and Ingalls.

"We speak one hundred times to every time we write," and every time we speak we leave an impression—good or bad. Realizing that good speech may "make or break" a person, a few students formed the Speakers Club. It has grown and grown in popularity. Today, student debates and discussions are judged by fellow contemporaries using a liberal practice of freedom of speech. From this usage the student not only gains in ability but also acquires a calm self-assurance in addressing an audience.

Each year from this loquacious group are chosen a few unusual speakers to give talks on high school curricula. At the various junior high schools, each curriculum offered is carefully explained to the 9-A's. However, the greatest honor which can befall any member is to become the sole representative of the school in the Lake Erie League Speech Contest. The large number of medals awarded to our contestants in the past is mute evidence that we "look well to our speech."

Teachers gave a sigh of relief last year when the English Council announced that no more "lost, strayed, or stolen" advertisements would be posted for book report folders. These elusive bits of brown paper were replaced by large white cards which contain space for all the required information and are easily filed in the Council's cabinet. Another activity of the Council, not quite equaling the former in popularity, is the annual spelling contest. For nights, students are bothered by fugitive "e's" or endless lists of words marching before their eyes. However, there is no student who doesn't repay his groans by learning a few tricks. Collecting old books for mountain schools, maintaining a tutoring service, and publishing the "English Councilor" add to the list of services. For this club, consisting of a respresentative from each English class, tries to aid the teachers in abolishing the "English shorthand" so many pupils use and replacing it with correct usage.

Dramatic Hi-Lights

ACTORS . . . . . .

The glare of blazing footlights, the thunder of applause, and the heavy mask of greasepaint are old acquaintances of the Barnstormer members. For potential actors and even playwrights and directors have the opportunity to practice their inherent talent and to satisfy their stage ambitions in Lakewood High's "little theater." Plays, pantomimes, and character sketches performed by fame-thirsty actors amuse the meetings. This year an excellent public presentation of the melodrama, "The Enemy," written by Channing Pollock, climaxed months of constant practice before the appreciative audience of empty seats.

With a maniacal gleam in his eye, Marshall, a shell-shocked soldier, tells the horrors of the war to Hildebran.

Thespian Club, Barnstormers

. . . . AND CRITICS

Among actors, Cleveland has acquired a reputation of being indifferent to the theater, and for many years has turned a cold shoulder to most road companies. Numbered among the groups in Greater Cleveland who have been attempting to counteract this, is Lakewood High's Thespian Club. After several members reported to the club their impressions at seeing the "Melancholy Dane" and "Our Town," they all have become missionaries for the cause known as the "legitimate theater." However, the Thespians do not limit themselves to the American stage, but invite speakers to discuss the merits of the modern European drama.

In commemoration of Armistice Day the Barnstormers presented the play, "The Enemy," by Channing Pollock. Characters are as follows:

Pauli Arndt	Helen Townsend
Baruska	Rachael Henderson

Biology

Armed with microscopes, biology students explore the mysteries of a Lilliputian world. Nothing escapes the prying minds of these pupils. Each group of living organisms, from the minute bacteria to the mammoth trees, and from the shapeless microbes to the intricate structure of man, is thoroughly studied. Not even worms nor dirt bother the horticulture students in the greenhouse, while "brother bones" points a scrawny finger at the physiology class.

Science Department . . . . Chemistry

Chemistry is an old and yet new science. Even in the early Middle Ages alchemists were concocting weird mixtures in crude laboratories. Because so many of the early alchemists were scheming magicians, their medieval theories are of little value. Today chemists in modernly equipped laboratories are still searching, not for the elixir of life, but for new synthetic products to replace a diminishing supply of raw materials. Each month some new element or material is discovered which might foster the growth of a new industry. And yet the field of chemistry has scarcely been invaded.

The Reign of the Elements

Keeping in tune with this progress, Lakewood High School is constantly buying new equipment for the chemistry department. Added to the sometimes too experimental classroom work are the movies showing the chemical industries. Ruling over the elements in the aromatic basement laboratories is Mr. Boruff, who also sponsors the Newton Society for inventive students—Mr. Decker, as manager for the baseball team juggles with equations and schedules—Biology classes and the junior varsity basketball decrease Mr. Kluckhohn's score for free hours—Mr. Watters sees America first with his cross-country squad.

. . . . Physics

Bursting water pipes often prove too realistically that water expands when it freezes. Physics students proceed a step farther and calculate how much a known quantity of water will expand when it freezes. By the correlation of the principles of this science with daily life, the study of physics becomes of practical importance to each student—boy or girl. Mr. Collier, the head executive, is justly proud of the increased attendance to his miniature Nela Park—Dark rooms are no mystery to Miss Hobbs, the sponsor for Photo Club—Mr. Webb, known as "Sparks," is the chief operator in the Radio Club.

Newton Society

Holding the spotlight in the club's activities is the fascinating chemical demonstration of liquid air. Interested chemists watch wonderingly while the speaker pounds nails with a banana, shatters a rubber ball, or heats a frying pan on a cake of ice. Outside speakers and numerous trips to local industrial plants highlight the yearly program of the Newton Society. By stimulating scientific investigation, this club has made rapid progress in cutting a definite niche for itself in the extra-curricular life.

Agassiz Club

The pungent odor of the anesthetic, formaldehyde, penetrates the brightly lighted room. Intently the doctor bends over the patient with an uplifted scalpel. He pauses, then plunges it deep into the skin—of a frog. Such is no unusual incident at a meeting of the Agassiz Club, that group of interested young scientists who explore the private lives of the plant and animal kingdom. Often controversy arises on the ideas concerning the lesser beings, but facts gleaned from reliable sources win in the end.

The Radio Club boys not only talk with other licensed stations, but also transmit the latest recordings for the benefit of pupils in the second floor of the main hall. Since its public address and recording systems have been featured in the Student Council campaigns, the club has become quite well known. Because of its wide-awake policy and student appeal it has become an asset to the school.

Proof of the excellent work of these "camera sharpshooters" can be found in the various awards of those who specialize in "saying it with pictures."

Language Department Provides a Cultural Background

A country without culture would be considered a barbaric place to live, for today culture is essential to civilization. Therefore, it is fitting that culture has a part in a school as progressive as Lakewood High. It is our language department that partly fills this need. Here, the ancient writings of the Romans vie with the more modern Spanish, French, and German literature. But whether it be Virgil's "Aeneid" or Storm's "Immensee" that the student reads, he gains an excellent basis for the English language.

French Club

An enthusiastic rendition of "Le Marseillaise" often re-echoes through the empty corridors outside Room 312. This is a vociferous reminder that the members of Le Cercle Francais have again gathered to converse fluently in French. Here, plays, games, and folk songs, the entertaining side of learning a language, are all presented in the best French style. For those students who are struggling to master this language, a knowledge of the French customs and country offers a welcome and yet educational diversion.

Spanish Club

A silver moon shone down through waving palms upon the festive streets. Gay senoritas and their caballeros whirled to the rhythm of a South American tango. The Spanish Club can't reproduce the waving palms, but the members do everything else possible to make their annual Spanish fiesta a realistic scene. It is their major event of the season, given for members and their guests. Letters from pen pals in South America or Spanish speakers from their native lands are featured at the regular bi-monthly meetings.

Latin is not a dead language for Ellstrom and Byce.

Although today Latin is a dead language, it finds many uses in science, law, and medicine. Evidence of its importance in modern life is found in the extra-curricular program of a progressive school. For those pupils who are interested in studying the customs of the Romans and the history of their civilization, the Latin Club provides an ideal background. Social Studies Department

Correlates the Past with the Present

"To draw from the past, for a better tomorrow"—that is the theme of the social studies department. While the study of history doesn't prove that tomorrow will be better, it gives the student a basis for expecting what tomorrow may bring. Above all, it kindles the spark of independent thinking which is exceedingly valuable in deciding the problems of life as they arise. Heading this department is energetic Mr. Jessup—Freshman football and Lake Erie speech contestants are coached by Mr. Hotz—Student Council meetings and Activities Banquet committees are enlivened by Mr. Cantrell—Hi-Forum and

Hi-Forum . . . . Lakewood High's Town Meeting

The members of the Hamilton Society made an important decision last fall when they changed the traditional name of the club to Hi-Forum. The popular Town Meeting of the Air serves as a model on which this new organization operates. Realizing that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, Hi-Forum members invite many well-informed persons to speak on specific problems which confront the citizens of today and tomorrow. A discussion group follows each speech, for the members are eager to present their own opinions on the subject or ask questions. Some of these even "stump the experts." Because this game of verbal ping-pong, with ideas for balls and words for paddles, offers an opportunity for fun, information, and self-expression, Hi-Forum has one of the largest club memberships at Lakewood High School.

Projectionists . . . . Masters of the Celluloid World

It was a black, stormy night. The wind howled madly about the treacherous mountain pass. Water from the swollen river filled every gully and dashed wildly downward, carrying trees and rocks with it. The thunder was answered by a rumble on the top of the mountain. Cautiously, Jim Rhodes, a camper, fought his way down the slippery path to warn the villagers below of the threatening danger. Just ahead was a sharp curve. Beyond, the rain had washed away the path. Would he see it! A misstep would hurtle him into a chasm! The bend was now three steps in front of him. The wind tore at him! Two steps! A merciless sheet of rain whipped against his face and blinded him. One step! He put out his hand and stepped—Horrors! Misery! This is the end of today's reel and the boys in the movie booth are turning off the projector!

Spans the Gulf Between Today and Tomorrow

The Phoenicians kept their records on thick clay tablets upon which they made wedge-shaped grooves. Comparing this cumbersome system with the modern method of bookkeeping, one can see the advancement made from tablets to filing cards, from a stylus to a typewriter. At Lakewood High School, students in the commercial curriculum receive training and practice in the newest methods of office work. In the bookkeeping classes, pupils become familiar with the red ink bottle and trial balance sheets. The typing classes learn the proper forms for business letters and legal documents while gaining accuracy and speed. The curly figures of shorthand characters soon become legible to short-

Aero Club

The members of this club are continually "up in the air" with their thoughts. This is quite natural because in the Aero Club pupils interested in aviation discuss the structure of the modern airplane and the advancements made in the field of aeronautics. Model airplane building is stressed in the club and the test flights of these models are momentous occasions. Yes, the thoughts of the "Aeroites" are definitely in the clouds, but their sincerity is down to earth.

The Hi-Commercial Club serves as a bridge spanning the gulf between the theoretical and the practical. In this organization the leaders in the business of tomorrow are gaining confidence which comes through knowledge and experience. Typing and mimeographing material for teachers give them practice in stenography. Trips to prominent business firms acquaint the members with the professional standards and prepare them for the next step, their entrance into a vocation.

Mathematics Department

. . . . Encourages Logical Reasoning

The Greeks were learned scholars in the field of mathematics, for many of today's geometric propositions and theories were expounded by them. Through the years their ideas have been expanded by the passing generations until today one of our most profound thinkers, Professor Einstein, has formulated the theory of the "fifth dimension." Because of this progressive change and the wide use of mathematics in the professional world, our mathematical department is an important one in molding the lives of many students. Here, in a world of angles, curves, and fractions, the pupils are taught by thinking logically to reach a sensible conclusion.

This habit is most important in any person's life, whether it be a housewife or an electrical engineer, for everyday life requires the person to make many decisions. By correlating the problems and exercises with experiences in daily life, the student soon learns to associate his mathematical conclusions with ordinary decisions. Because of the great amount of accuracy demanded in this science, the course also teaches the student to develop the power of concentration. In addition to these general values, courses in solid geometry and advanced algebra drill those students who plan to continue in mathematics in the fundamental principles.

It's an undisputed fact that one plus one equals two, and it's an equally undisputed fact that a genuine interest in mathematics plus enthusiastic members equals the Math Club. Outside speakers, trips to places of interest, discussions about different problems, and other types of special programs are all used by this club in its efforts to further the interests of mathematics among its members. Needless to say, the club has always enjoyed great success in these efforts, and it rightly "figures" it has a bright future.

Industrial Arts Department

The technical department hopes to develop in its students qualities of industry and skill which are of the utmost importance both in the industrial and the everyday world. In its course it tries to discover hidden mechanical talent and to form the proper appreciation of the relation of work to the mechanized world of today and tomorrow. Among the many studies offered in this department, cabinet making can probably be classed with the important and interesting studies. This course acquaints the student with woodworking tools, and by actual practice

In the background of Lakewood's mill room is Mr. Howe, who is little known to the majority of the students. He makes most of the new furniture, bookcases, and handles most of repairs. Mr. Champion is in charge of the print shop, which is not subsidized by the school system, but is operated on a self-sustaining basis.

Printer Hyde and Editor Goodnow go over plans and "chew the fat" in making night stands or book shelves, it cultivates in him an interest in the art of woodworking. Amid the clanking noise of presses, students develop skill in the ancient art of typesetting and are helped to realize more fully the importance of printing in the world of literature and science. Pattern making, as its very name suggests, aids the technical student in making the different types of patterns and blueprints used in modern industry. Electrical construction is important because of the wide use of electricity in present-day industry. By simplifying the principles of electricity and showing the pupils how to wire the interior of a house and how to fix the common "household blackouts" due to short circuits, the course prepares students for the future. Actual practice in repairing cars gives auto mechanics students the chance to learn from experience what makes the car go and how to repair some of the breaks which any car may develop. Creative expression through molten metals is one of the subjects offered in the foundry course in which the students design individual projects such as modeling in clay or pouring and casting in plaster-of-Paris. Machine shop acquaints one with the various types of machinery and methods of operating them. Here a study is also made of the various steps the raw material undergoes until it becomes a finished product. Exactness, even to the "nth" degree, is required for mechanical drawing pupils in the drawing and freehand designing of patterns and plans for various types of constructions. Machine drawing courses familiarize one with the intricate brains of machines and how to draw their parts. Plans for building model homes have their nucleus in our architectural drawing classes.

Home Economics Department

In the world of tomorrow the specialist in the home economics field will be indispensable. Already there are more positions than can be filled. But whether a girl intends to make home economics her profession or not, she should be trained in the fundamentals of homemaking. At Lakewood High School "good cooks are made, not born," can be easily proved by a visit to our modern cooking classes. The girls not only learn how to fashion epicurean delights, but they also practice the old-fashioned art of dishwashing. Sewing and handcraft classes are popular, too, for the girls may replenish their wardrobes with clothes, many of which they have designed themselves. In our model suite, home management students find that housework is easy with the aid of labor-saving devices. Thus by choosing the home economics course a girl receives a well-rounded home training.

A group of seven teachers are responsible for the popularity and the growth in the home economics course in Lakewood High School. Presiding over the varied activities of the model home department is Miss Miller, who turns author by spending her summers writing textbooks—Mr. Bortner, the household chemistry teacher, casts aside his test tubes and acid bottles for his hobby of cabinet making and woodworking—Unusual restaurants with the touch of atmosphere entice Miss Campbell, our connoisseur of good food—To Miss L. Cook should go many thank-you notes for the efficient serving at our school banquets—Guiding girls is Miss Merrill's pastime, for she is a sponsor of the Friendship Club and the adviser to the 11-B girls—Miss Singer continues her interest in home economics by directing the Hamlyn Club—Badminton and horseback riding keep Miss Taylor fit.

Hamlyn Club

The second organization to hold a christening this year is the Hamlyn Club, formerly called the Home Economics Club. Delving into the records of old English, the members found the word Hamlyn, which accurately describes the purpose of the club. However, the modern English word, service, might be the club's surname, for the members roll bandages for Lakewood Hospital, make baby clothes for mountain families, and give baskets to needy families. Each fall the members attend the Northeastern Ohio Regional Conference to exchange plans for the coming year.

Art Department

. . . . Develops Self-Expression Through the Hands

Long before men could speak, they conveyed their emotions and ideas by drawing crude pictures on the walls of their caves. Primitive as these pictures may seem, they are the beginnings of art. Through the years each great period of civilization has contributed some outstanding pieces of art indirectly reflecting the customs, the characters, and the ideals of the people. Because of the ability of the Greeks to fashion natural beauty from a cold slab of marble, the simplicity and perfection of their work are still models for the sculptor. Surely a race of people who attained such a high standard in art was endowed with a vivid imagination and the appreciation of true beauty. The Renaissance period produced the masters in religious paintings, for it was then that Michael Angelo and Leonardo Da Vinci lived. Today a new type of art called abstract painting shows the influence of the continual modernization of the world. But this group is still small compared to the number of artists who are trying to express beauty in the ordinary things of life.

Art Department

. . . . Offers Basic Training in all the Arts

The Lakewood High art department belongs to the last group of artists, those who find beauty in common objects. For the students choose a house, a vase of flowers, or a wintry sky and with accurate strokes of their pencils they fashion lovely sketches. Other pupils excell in figure drawing or in painting landscapes with water colors. Bracelets etched with beautiful designs, leather belts finished with hand tooling, and rings set with sparkling stones are all work of the arts and crafts classes. Even students interested in interior decorating are given an opportunity to plan model rooms using period furniture and design. Through a course in the history and appreciation of art, the pupils obtain an understanding of art through the ages. In addition to instructing these classes, Miss Barkley, the head of the department, and Mrs. Rash find time to sponsor the Hi-Art Guild. The stage crew and the senior play draw Mr. Neneman's attention from his hobby of sketching.

Hi-Art Guild

Whether it's a candy sale or book week, clever posters contributed by the craftsmen of the Hi-Art Guild are seen in each nook and cranny. Talent of every description can be found within this group that gathers to further their appreciation of art through the ages. At least once during the year, the members visit the Art Museum to study the latest additions in sculpture and paintings. By following the examples of the masters, our artists are preparing for the giving of beauty and character to the world.

With the possibility of new uniforms becoming an actuality sometime next year, new spirit has come to the band members. The marching band put on one of their finest shows in several years during football season. Success was partially due to snappy formations and the drum major's skill. Suker's generally successful attempts at tossing the baton over the goal post and the mid-season surprise of twirling two batons are the pride of the school. The concert band this year staged an early spring concert and entered the state contest hoping to make first division, and thus be eligible for the nationals. Organized this year was the "varsity" band, a picked group of musicians.

A Cappella Choir

Mr. Evans directs all of Lakewood High School's organizations, including A Cappella Choir, Junior A Cappella Choir, Boys Glee Club, and Girls Glee Club.

Boys Glee Club

The most popular class at Lakewood High School is the A Cappella Choir under the direction of maestro, Mr. Evans. Each member of the choir covets the privilege of wearing the purple and gold robes because he loves music and enjoys participating in choral singing. The main event of each year is the Lake Erie Music Festival, for then the choir travels to another high school to spend the day in rehearsing and the evening in presenting a concert in which they sing in a massed chorus of several hundred. At Christmas time they fill the lobbies of the hotels and hospitals with their musical greetings of Yuletide cheer. This experience of working and singing with others is not easily forgotten, for the members discover that this is the real joy in music.

Although the famous "barber shop quartets" of the gas-light and horse and buggy era have passed long into oblivion, the interest in semi-classical music and harmony still lives in the youth of today. In the Boys Glee Club at Lakewood High School the musically inclined students find an excellent opportunity to harmonize "to their heart's content," while they are gaining an appreciation of all types of musical compositions. In fact, the boys enjoy singing so much that after the club has adjourned its song-session, strains of "Sylvia" often penetrate the babble of voices in the crowded halls. Each year the Boys Glee Club joins the other musical organizations of the school in presenting a program of music at its best—the Spring Festival of Music.

Class in Harmony

Almost every outstanding civilization has its peculiar type of music. Not only are the melodies of the races distinctive, but the typical harmony adds to the beauty of their haunting melodies. By studying the various types of harmony a student at Lakewood High School learns to supply his own interpretation to a simple tune and change it into a beautiful piece of music. However, this is not easy. The student must learn the musical terminology for the simple and intricate chorus. After this is accomplished, he must learn to fit the chords to a melody and train his ear to catch the unharmonious sounds. Finally, he is able to supply the melody to a group of chords or to find the harmony for a simple air. Sometimes the pupil even composes an original piano selection.

Girls Glee Club

"Music hath its charm" when it is the music sung by the Girls Glee Clubs of Lakewood High School. Each member of the two classes strives to reach the star of musical perfection. Sometimes the way is difficult for it is blocked by constant practicing. However, the directors, Miss Phillips and Mr. Evans, try to choose songs that will be enjoyable to sing and yet will improve the talent of the girls.

Body Building at Lakewood High

It is now recognized that one of the most important parts of the modern school curriculum is physical education. No longer is the school concerned only with the training of the mind, because now it must also train the body. With the growth of modern cities the space needed for exercise by adults and children has become considerably restricted. With the accelerated tempo of modern times, the time allotted to body development has also become proportionally reduced. Therefore, there has grown up a demand for sports which will provide the most exercise in the short time and restricted space available. In the school, there have grown up three departments: regular physical education, intramural home room competition, and school teams. This first is included in the class schedule; the other two, in the extra-curricular activities. The popularity of the extra-curricular sports has been increased to such an extent over the last few years that they now include almost the entire field of athletics. Football, basketball, track, tennis, swimming, wrestling, baseball, hockey, and fencing are all practiced in Lakewood High School. These sports are divided into varsity and reserve teams so that more of the student body can participate in them. The beneficial effect of these sports is not only confined to the actual physical education, for it is here that the students have an opportunity to learn real co-operation and real sportsmanship.

Splits Evenly Between Losses and Victories

This year, capably coached by Mr. Ness, the Lakewood Rangers made a fair record. They played against some superior teams and won 5 out of 10 games. Lakewood won the first game of the season against a traditional foe. Rocky River, with an overwhelming score. Michael and Lipaj each scored twice. However, Rhodes, the next opponent, proved to be too much for Lakewood. Even with some good last quarter passing, the Rangers were unable to break through Rhodes' heavy line. Cleveland Heights was next. There Lakewood's team was unable to cope with the mud even though they were admittedly superior to Heights. The next week the Purple and Gold redeemed themselves by beating a speedy Elyria outfit. Hurd and Heine were outstanding. Encouraged and elated, the team showed its best form so far by defeating East Tech. Michael and Pressler both scored touchdowns. Hopes high, the team met the undefeated Shaw eleven, and staged a major upset by winning 13 to 0. Leonard and Nolan at the end positions were very effective; Michael, Pressles, and Lipaj took care of the interference ably; and Markovitch scored. With this victory on the tally sheet, both the team and the school were praying for an upset against Lorain. The whole student body turned out and both schools eagerly awaited the game. Undefeated, Lorain was determined to remain so, and did. Nevertheless, the Steelmen scored only once because of a very effective Ranger defense. Over-confident because of their showing against Lorain and Shaw, the Purple eleven lost to Shaker Heights. The only redeeming features of the game were the outstanding line play of Spoth and Potts, and the brilliant running of Clayton Garver. The erratic Rangers scored their fifth victory of the season by edging out a stubborn Berea eleven on Lakewood's field. Berea surprised Lakewood with a fine aerial offense, which the Purple were unable to cope with until the second period when Pressler scored. Lipaj scored the second touchdown. Lakewood's luckless Rangers finished their season by falling before an undefeated West Tech team in their annual Thanksgiving Day clash. Although the Rangers threatened again and again Tech's goal line, they were unable to score. In the second quarter Tech scored their only touchdown, but did not make an extra point. In this game sixteen lettermen were lost to the Rangers, the outstanding of whom were Pressler, Hurd, Heine, Garver, Nunn, and Michael. Norm Michael and Bob Heine were awarded a place on the All-Scholastic team and Huck Leonard received honorable mention. Jim Nolan and Pat Doyle were acknowledged stars of the Lake Erie League. The Reserve team will be on deck next year, and although lighter and less experienced, will certainly make a good showing.

Junior Varsity Football

These Scores Predict Successful Lineup for Next Year

First the Purple Pups in junior high, then the junior varsity or reserves in the tenth grade, and finally the varsity for upperclassmen—that is the training for Lakewood High football players. That the junior high players have benefited both in training and experience from their coaching may be attested by the playing of the recent reserve teams. Last year's team is an excellent example of the good a year of training can do. Under the tutelage of Coach Linden, the Lakewood junior varsity punted, passed, and ran its way through a highly successful season last year. The scoreboard records show that the reserves won eleven games and lost one. After defeating Collinwood in the opener, they were downed by the North Olmsted varsity, 18 to 13. The remaining ten games, however, Lakewood marched through without defeat—winning against Rhodes, Cleveland Heights, Elyria, East Tech, Lincoln, Lorain, West

Tech, Shaker, Marshall, and Shaker. Hugh Jones, Dick Jenkins, Cliff Lewis, and Leonard Benbow proved adept at running well either right or left down the field. Close guarding on the defensive and co-ordination on the offensive, combined with some of the razzle-dazzle plays, were also characteristic of the team. Their almost air-tight combination enabled the juniors to compile an impressive total of two hundred points as compared to their opponents' thirty-seven and score at least two touchdowns in every encounter except the Collinwood game. Jones, high scorer with ninety-one points, appears to be excellent varsity material. Benbow, Schenker, Drouilliard, Warfield, and Kresge also look as though they will develop into good linemen and offensive players. With fellows like these donning their varsity togs next fall we may expect a superior team which may be able to equal this year's varsity record.

Season Punctured by Series of Heartrending Defeats

Krist, Lossman, Doddridge, Spackman, Yensho, Leonard, Eichwald, Lewis, Jenkins, Jones, Rutherford, and Chockley—these names spell varsity basketball for Lakewood High School. Milt Krist, Eddie Lossman, John Doddridge, Tom Spackman, and Andy Yensho formed the backbone of the Lakewood Rangers in the early part of this season. After the graduation of Doddridge and Lossman in January, however, Gene Rutherford, Ken Eichwald, Cliff Lewis, Dick Jenkins, Bud Chockley, and Hugh Jones, were all promoted to more active service. The Purple started the season off in the right way by winning their first two games—the first over West Tech and the second over Akron North. In the third game, however, Lakewood suffered a stinging defeat at the hands of Shaw. After Shaw, came Lincoln—and another defeat. The Purple then came back to take over

Alumni, but they followed this victory by losing their second and third Lake Erie games to Elyria and to Cleveland Heights. The Rangers took revenge for these two setbacks, however, by trouncing both Lorain and Shaker. Then Shaw managed to beat the boys for the second time, but Elyria's attempt to duplicate Shaw's feat by gaining another victory over the Purple was unsuccessful, and hence Lakewood won its sixth victory of the season. Cleveland Heights edged the boys out in the next game, but then Lorain, Shaker, Brush, and the same Cleveland Heights all bowed to Lakewood in rapid succession. The season ended with a loss to Barberton. The Rangers ended the season with ten wins and seven losses. They placed third in the L. E. L. standings. Taking into consideration that Bob Leonard was out for the entire season because of a shoulder injury, and that Doddridge and Lossman were both lost to the team in the mid-year graduations, our Lakewood five gave a good account of themselves. Above all, though, they always showed that spirit of good sportsmanship that never fails to win the whole-hearted support of any onlooker.

Reserve Squad

Mr. Kluckhohn's reserve cagers turned in one of the best records of the year by winning 11 out of 14 scheduled games. In the first game against West Tech the team won with a score of 42 to 21. The reserves trounced Akron North, then lost to Shaw and Lincoln. Paced by Cliff Lewis, the team started a series of seven victories by beating Elyria. After winning over the alumni 20 to 16, the squad upset Cleveland Heights by coming from behind at the half. Jenkins led the reserves to a victory over Lorain. Undaunted by the loss of Jones, Jenkins, and Lewis, their leading scorers, who were graduated to the varsity squad, the team beat both Shaw and Shaker, Benbow scoring 21 points in the Shaw game. Behind 15 to 9 at the end of the first half, the cagers settled down to beat Elyria. Meeting Cleveland Heights for the second time, the boys were unable to repeat the previous performance, and lost. However, they then redeemed themselves by scoring two victories in three days, against Shaker and Shaw, Bone starred. The team ended the season tying Heights as league champs. Benbow led in scoring with a total of 112 points for the season.

Track

Following his tradition of thirteen years, Coach Corneal again turned out winning relay teams. In each of the first two meets of the season against West and East, Lakewood won every event but one. In the first annual Inter-Scholastic Relay Meet at the Arena the Cornealmen managed to capture two firsts, two seconds, and four thirds. Walzer, Trinka, and Bowditch, won the four-mile relay, and Pressler, Miller, Huber, and Lanning won the 880. In a meet with Rhodes, which had placed ahead of Lakewood in the Arena, Lakewood came out the victor. Meeting Rhodes again in the Lakewood-Marshall-Rhodes meet, the trackmen tied for first place. In the sixteenth annual Inter-Scholastic Indoor Track Meet Lakewood placed third. In the Mansfield relays Lakewood placed only once. The trackmen then beat West Tech in a dual meet, and placed second in the West Side relays, breaking both the 440 and 880 records. The team finished the season by winning the Lake Erie League title, and by breaking the state 880 relay record in the district meet held at Columbus in the rain.

Tennis

Team Captures League Championship for Thirteenth Time

This year again the Lakewood High School tennis team won the Lake Erie League championship. Coach Wernicke started off with only two returning lettermen, one of whom had to withdraw in the middle of the season. "L" man Twining, who reached the finals of the Press tournament, played the position of first singles. His lasting power and amazing net game enabled him to win four matches and tie one. Torreson and Marshall played second and third singles, respectively. The doubles teams were composed of Jonap and Risberg, and Maddock and Harrison. Thus with six new men the team won its thirteenth title and clinched the ownership of the Lake Erie cup. Torreson's backhand, Marshall's forehand, Jonap's serve, Risberg's back court game, Maddock's tricky western, and Harrison's lobbing were the outstanding features of the team.

Hockey

Starting out the season with nine lettermen, the Lakewood ice squad showed good form by tying Euclid Shore in a pre-league game. The next opponent, Collinwood, however, proved to be too tough; and in the first league game with Heights the icers lost again. The team was then upset by a weak Cathedral Latin sextet to the tune of 4 to 3. In spite of Bundy's desperate attempts to score, Lakewood then lost to Shaw. However, the team redeemed itself by beating Shaw twice, and by finishing the season with a victory over St. Ignatius.

Baseball

Starting off the season with a victory against St. Ignatius, Lakewood High's baseball team made the first step towards second place in the Lake Erie League. Encouraged by Gluvna's timely hitting, the team then won against West High. After beating Parma and Rocky River, the Rangers lost to West Tech. In the second round Lakewood won against East Tech, lost to Parma and West High, and finished the season in second place after losing to West Tech. Gibson and Krist were two of the outstanding players throughout the season.

Fencing

Lunges in quarte and parries in tierce on the long black strip—it's the Fencing Club. Under supervision of Mr. Grey these embryonic D'Artagnans seek perfection in fencing forms. Fencing is one of the most strenuous and exacting sports man has ever devised. It requires a precision of timing, a keen eyesight, and a supply of energy few people ever attain. The Fencing Club of Lakewood High School was created this year and it is the hope of every one of its members that it will now become a permanent institution.

Minor Sports

Cross-Country

Again this year, under the leadership of Coach Watters, the cross-country team had a successful season. In the first meet, Simmons led the harriers to victory over West High. The next opponent, Shaw, was beaten, 33 to 24. However, Lincoln and East High then forced Lakewood to third place in the district meet. In the state meet, Lakewood had its revenge by placing fifth, ahead of both East and Lincoln. Since Larry Reilly, Howard Stiner, Fred Bowditch, and Andy Yensho all placed, the team was able to better last year's record.

Wrestling

During the 1939-40 season, Lakewood High's matmen retained a long undefeated record until they were upset by West Tech. Although the team lost to Lincoln and Euclid Shore, it won against Shaker and John Marshall and beat South High for the first time in three years. After being defeated by West High and West Tech, the team beat John Hay. Then two of Lakewood's wrestlers, Dale Rowe, 185-pound division, and James McCarthy, 130-pound division, climaxed three months of inter-school competition by placing in the city finals.

Swimming

Unexpectedly, after a season punctuated by withdrawals and ineligibilities, Coach Linden's mermen hung up the second Lake Erie League title of the year for the school teams. The Lakewood swimmers won their initial meet from West Tech by a narrow margin. Then came defeats from Shaw, Sandusky, Canton McKinley, and University School. In the Northeastern Ohio relays, Lakewood placed sixth. After being edged out by Heights, the Rangers culminated the season by placing in all events of the league meet to win a sought-after title.

Miss Hiserodt

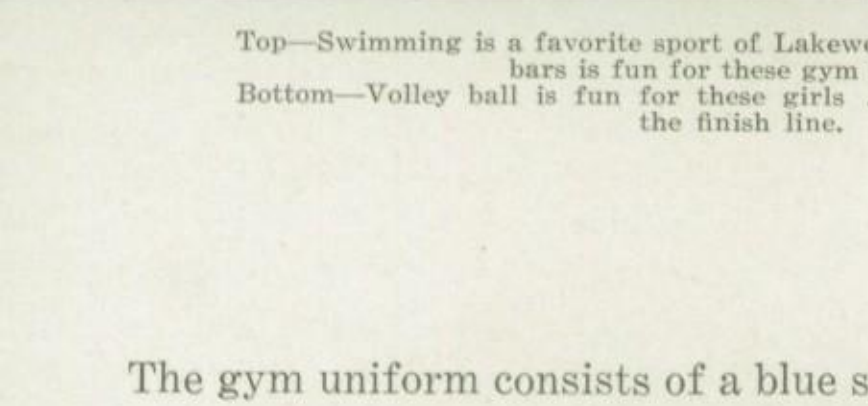
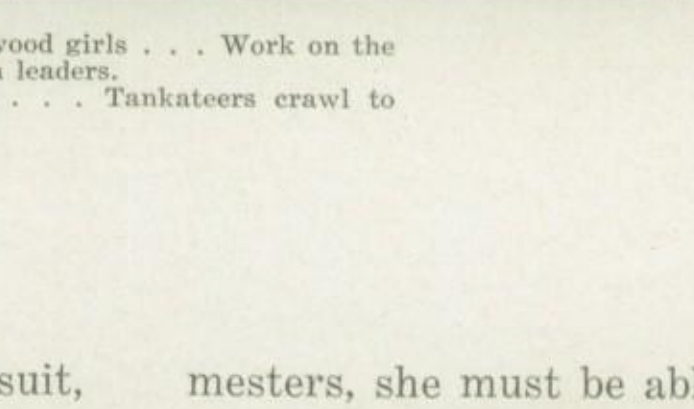
Our modern Amazons, not content with the sidelines, have combined eager interest and a sense of fair play to organize competitive teams in almost all forms of athletics. Basketball, volley ball, baseball, ping-pong, badminton and tennis—all promote a sense of rhythm, a well-balanced body, and a sound mind. Under the able direction of Miss Hiserodt, departmental head, and Miss Kopp, the girls learn to pivot, volley, bat, dribble, serve, and the like. Five semesters of physical education are required, and the classes meet twice a week. So competent do many of the girls become that even our expert lettermen have to admit that "they aren't half bad." They have also recently organized intramural sports which include baseball, basketball, and volley ball, and the girls "fight it out" before and after school hours. Basketball seems to be the favorite game, and these vivacious "hoopsters" can be seen shooting for baskets at almost any time of the day. The quick decisions and real co-operation of such recreation make for well-organized teams and keen rivalry.





Top—Swimming is a favorite sport of Lakewood girls . . . Work on the bars is fun for these gym leaders.

The center jump starts off a basketball game.

The gym uniform consists of a blue suit, white shoes, and white socks. A white shirt, too, is optional. If a girl is incorrectly dressed, she is given a costume demerit—two of these constitute a make-up, and she is required to come in another period to make up her work. If a girl has an unexcused absence, she is given a zero and has two make-ups. Two semesters of swimming are necessary for graduation. In order to be promoted from the first semester, one must be able to pass the eight fundamentals; to obtain credit for both semesters, she must be able to make one successful dive and do three main strokes in good form. In addition, a new and very popular form of recreation at Lakewood High is modern dancing. This helps to develop posture and requires skill and flexible muscles. The girls march to the rhythmic beat of the tom tom and practice calisthenics which promote strength and gracefulness. Not only are the physical education and swimming classes exceedingly popular, but they also teach the essentials of self-control and healthful living.

Leaders and Tankateers

. . . . Our Modern Amazons at Lakewood High

Splash! The unruffled stillness of the water abruptly changes to a churning mass of arms and legs, for the Tankateers Club is having one of its many splash parties. The mermaids of Lakewood High entertain the girls of other schools, and the get-togethers are the scenes of many an exciting game of water polo, Red Rover, and the like. The girls all "take to water like a duck," for to become a member, they must pass a series of tests which require skill and ability. These include one dive from the edge of the pool, four strokes in good form, a surface dive to retrieve an object, a life saving carry, and ten laps of the pool freestyle. These examples of feminine pulchritude are examples of diving ability and they are swimmers of no mean caliber.

A fine code of sportsmanship and the ability to direct others distinguish the members of Leaders Club. These girls, outstanding in their white suits, take roll, care for equipment, referee, and demonstrate various plays. After training one semester, the prospective members are voted upon and accepted. This year the Lakewood Leaders instigated an all-Lake Erie League executive council luncheon. The officers of all the Leaders Clubs were present and exchanged ideas. The luncheon proved so successful that it was decided to have one every semester. Their activities include an annual apple sale and a Play Day on which they entertain the Leaders of another school. All in all, these feminine athletes present a fine example of fun combined with service.

Boot and Bridle Club

The Place Where "Horse Sense" Is Accepted

Twining shows her lovely smile to the riding instructor.

"A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse" might well be the slogan of the Lakewood High School Boot and Bridle Club. Here our "cowgirls" gather to tell their horse tales and to discuss their plans for the annual horse show. Because Lakewood is singularly fortunate in having ready access to several excellent riding academies, the girls have an opportunity to gain practical experience in horse sense. In the fall and spring of the year, they gallop through the valley, laughing and singing, in tune with the pounding of horses' hoofs. During our strenuous winters, however, they seek the protection of the Equestrium where they engaged in difficult army drills, working not for individual brilliance but for the perfect coordination of the whole. These drills require exact cooperation and develop poise and confidence. The drills are held twice a month at the Equestrium and are generally accompanied by a riding session. The girls are not allowed to mount their horses unless they are dressed in the proper habit, which consists of boots and breeches or jodphurs. Often the members have hidden in their pockets a lump of sugar to entice their favorite mounts. A prospective member must be able to ride acceptably the three gaits: walking, trotting, and cantering. She must also tell something interesting concerning horses. When this is accomplished to the satisfaction of all, she becomes a member in "full standing" of the Boot and Bridle Club, where the spirit of fun and a love of their popular sport prevails.

These Familiar Faces Are Found in Prominent Places

Cafeteria

The bell sounds like a starter's gun to hungry students. Up the stairs to the cafeteria they dash to wait impatiently while the lunch line slowly dwindles. Meanwhile, menu cards and savory odors whet their appetites. Behind the counter, Miss Betts and her efficient helpers dish the tempting food into the new green and white china. According to the latest survey, chocolate foods rank first with approximately 700 students, while meat loaf and city chicken are close seconds. At the end, student cashiers tally the purchases.

Library

Knowledge concerning anything from needles to the wars in Europe can be found on the filled shelves lining our library. In our library each student has an equal opportunity to investigate the world of facts. A library staff of a few students interested in library work is apprenticed in repairing and charging books, cataloguing and returning them to their places. Miss Findley and Miss Stockwell, "the keepers of the keys," earnestly hope that each pupil will use the library as an aid to studying and leisure reading.

Office Staff and Custodians

Throughout the building two rings of the bell cause students to glance at the clock. No, class isn't over, for two rings are the official summons for the custodians. These men are our co-workers, and they work untiringly to keep the building clean and habitable.

Our enlarged main office has the appearance of a well-organized, efficient business organization. The staff of three secretaries, aided by student messengers and helpers, handles the endless details necessary to keep the wheels running without friction.

for a better TOMORROW

. . . . At Lakewood High School

Change is inevitable. However, change is not necessarily progress, for unchecked and uncontrolled, it may be an indication of deterioration. A backward glance at education will show that there has been a constant growth and improvement in educational processes and methods. Looking through this annual, one will be convinced that Lakewood High School has had wise leadership in the past and that we are still attempting to reach our goal—perfection. What the future will be no one knows, but the Cinema staff hopes sincerely that this glimpse into the future may give all a certain assurance and faith in a greater and better tomorrow.

Completion of one section of Lakewood's horseshoe stadium is scheduled for September, 1940.

Study Hall

"How to study" is one of the most important problems in a modern school. If one can comprehend the principles underlying the art of concentration early, he has accomplished one of the principles of success in a vocation. Concentration is defined as the process of centering all of one's energies toward the accomplishment of his task of the moment. This is the supreme test of self-discipline. A large study hall may not be the ideal setting for such an important task, but we must study even in 141, 142, and 306.

Auto Club

To sit behind the wheel and be the master of a powerful automobile is the ambition of every motorist in the Lakewood High Auto Club. But before these members are taught the principles of driving, they learn the all-important lesson of good citizenship on the highway. The student's great day comes when he is actually allowed to drive one of the school's two dual control cars. By instructing the pupils in the proper method of controlling a car, this club has become a symbol of progress in traffic problems.

For the Democracy of Tomorrow

. . . . National Honor Society

Perhaps the greatest honor that can be bestowed on any high school student in his senior year is the privilege of wearing the gold keystone emblazoned with a torch, the symbol of the National Honor Society. For in this organization are the leaders—not just the leaders in our high school activities, but in high schools throughout the entire United States. The gold key is the milestone of the service, character building, leadership, and scholarship reached in the three years spent at high school; the torch is the guiding light along the road of life to the next milestone. Each member who has attained the four-fold goal pledges to hold the torch high and brighten the world of tomorrow just as many of the members elected since 1923 have done. However, while the members are looking to the future, they do not neglect the present. This year for the first time, the National Honor Society of Lakewood High School has started a scholarship fund to aid a worthy student in gaining more education. Partly to raise money for this service and partly to encourage fellowship among the new members of the organization, the Honor Society sponsored a dance in the school gymnasium. The club also stimulates school spirit by urging each member to attend all the social events sponsored by the school. More plans for this year include the establishing of a permanent record book and the continuance of a valuable tutoring service.

Student Council

Teaches Self-Reliance

In the Student Council, we, the students of Lakewood High, express our ideas concerning the government of the school. This model Congress of student representatives sincerely attempts to add improvements for the school's citizens of today and tomorrow. This year marks the acquirement of the long-desired public address system which has been the council's goal for over two years. The annual student government day sponsored by the group offers the pupils an opportunity to actually govern the school and its classes—a good example of the democratic way.

Today bold headlines scream war from every newspaper. Since it is the youth of the nation that will be affected by war, our Hi-Y Club drafted a peace resolution which was signed by a majority of the students and sent throughout the nation. The members also financed Dr. Slutz, a well-known adviser, who in his conferences answered many of the student problems. In addition to these activities, they distributed baskets to needy families and formed a junior Hi-Y chapter to further the ideal of character building.

Friendship Club

Offers the Keys to Personality Town

All roads lead to life in the Friendship Town. The main highway is the monthly meeting along which the members find interesting sign-posts. Such unusual headings as "My Lady Steps Out" and "Fashions to Catch the Eye" lead the student to the side streets of personal care and character building. Another well-trod road in Friendship Town is the supper of the month. No one will forget the crossroads of the Faculty Frolic, the International Supper, and the Pa-Ma-Me Banquet. Because the population of the town is so large, a group of streets called the highways of special interests is needed. Here live the girls who employ their talents in art, program planning, and other types of service. Everyone still remembers the pot-luck suppers and the Community Fund Pageant. Each girl who has traveled the roads of life, has reached the first marker of her destination by finding a happier and more useful life.

Assembly

Assemblies sponsored by activities such as the German Club pictured here are popular at Lakewood.

Because the advisers of Lakewood High School believe that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," they sponsor the entertaining and the educational assemblies performed in the school auditorium. One of the most recent of these programs was a man who showed the students the unusual pliability of heated glass. By using the same method as the early glass blowers, he fashioned a delicate ship model and stretched a piece of glass tubing from the stage to the back of the auditorium. The Hi-Y boys financed a three-day visit of Dr. Frank Slutz, the eminent psychologist. During his stay he spoke to the three divisions of the student body and also held conferences with small groups who were anxious to discuss personal problems. Not to be forgotten is the television assembly where many of the intricacies of the system were explained. Several members of the audience were chosen for models as the demonstrator showed the practical use of the machine. Ed Koosed was selected to represent Lakewood in the Lake Erie League Speech Contest when several boys competed for the honor in assembly. Lakewood is not to be excelled in talent, for our own A Cappella Choir and Glee Clubs always received the well-deserved welcome. In addition to these types of assemblies, there are the weekly vocational meetings which give students a preview of their future activities.

306 . . . The Cafeteria

Lakewood High School has progressed and expanded so rapidly that the cafeteria is used as a study hall five periods of the day.

JANUARY

Although the graduation of the January seniors is past, it still is a prophecy of accomplishments yet to come, accomplishments which will determine the success or failure of each person. Yet these seniors continue to retain a hope and belief in the future as expressed by their motto, "Captains of Our Fate." To guide it along its present course the January class chose for its capable officers Dick Kelley, President; Flossie Moore, Vice President; Lenore Collins, Secretary; and Dick Kramer, Treasurer. The committee members are as follows: Class Night—Bill Doyle, Joe Brezovsky, Dan Frederici, Jean Flowers, Ralph Twining, Marjorie Bowers, Margie Galbraith, Douglas Fleming, Art Tuscany, Betty Holtz, and Evelyn Reed; Senior Prom—Clayton Garver, Gloria Blessing, Sara Samsey, Pat Meckes, Howard Doerr, Louise Schweitzer, Norman Michael, Bob Hutchinson, and Bob Jonap; Commencement Announcements—Connie Smith, Carolyn Watt, Fred Bowditch, and George Bode; Class Color—Jim Nolan, Michael Hoty, and Esther Dissly; Class Motto—Ed Lossman, Jane Roberts, and Georgene Engholm; Class Flower—Elizabeth Hoffman, Jean Moodie, and Ed McRobie; Class Gift—Charles Solada, Bill Galbraith, and Ann Kintner; Girls' Dress—Lenore Collins, Flossie Moore, Betty Johnson, and Betty Eichler; Boys' Dress—Dick Martin, Doug Fleming, Maynard Farr, John Alder, and John Doddridge.

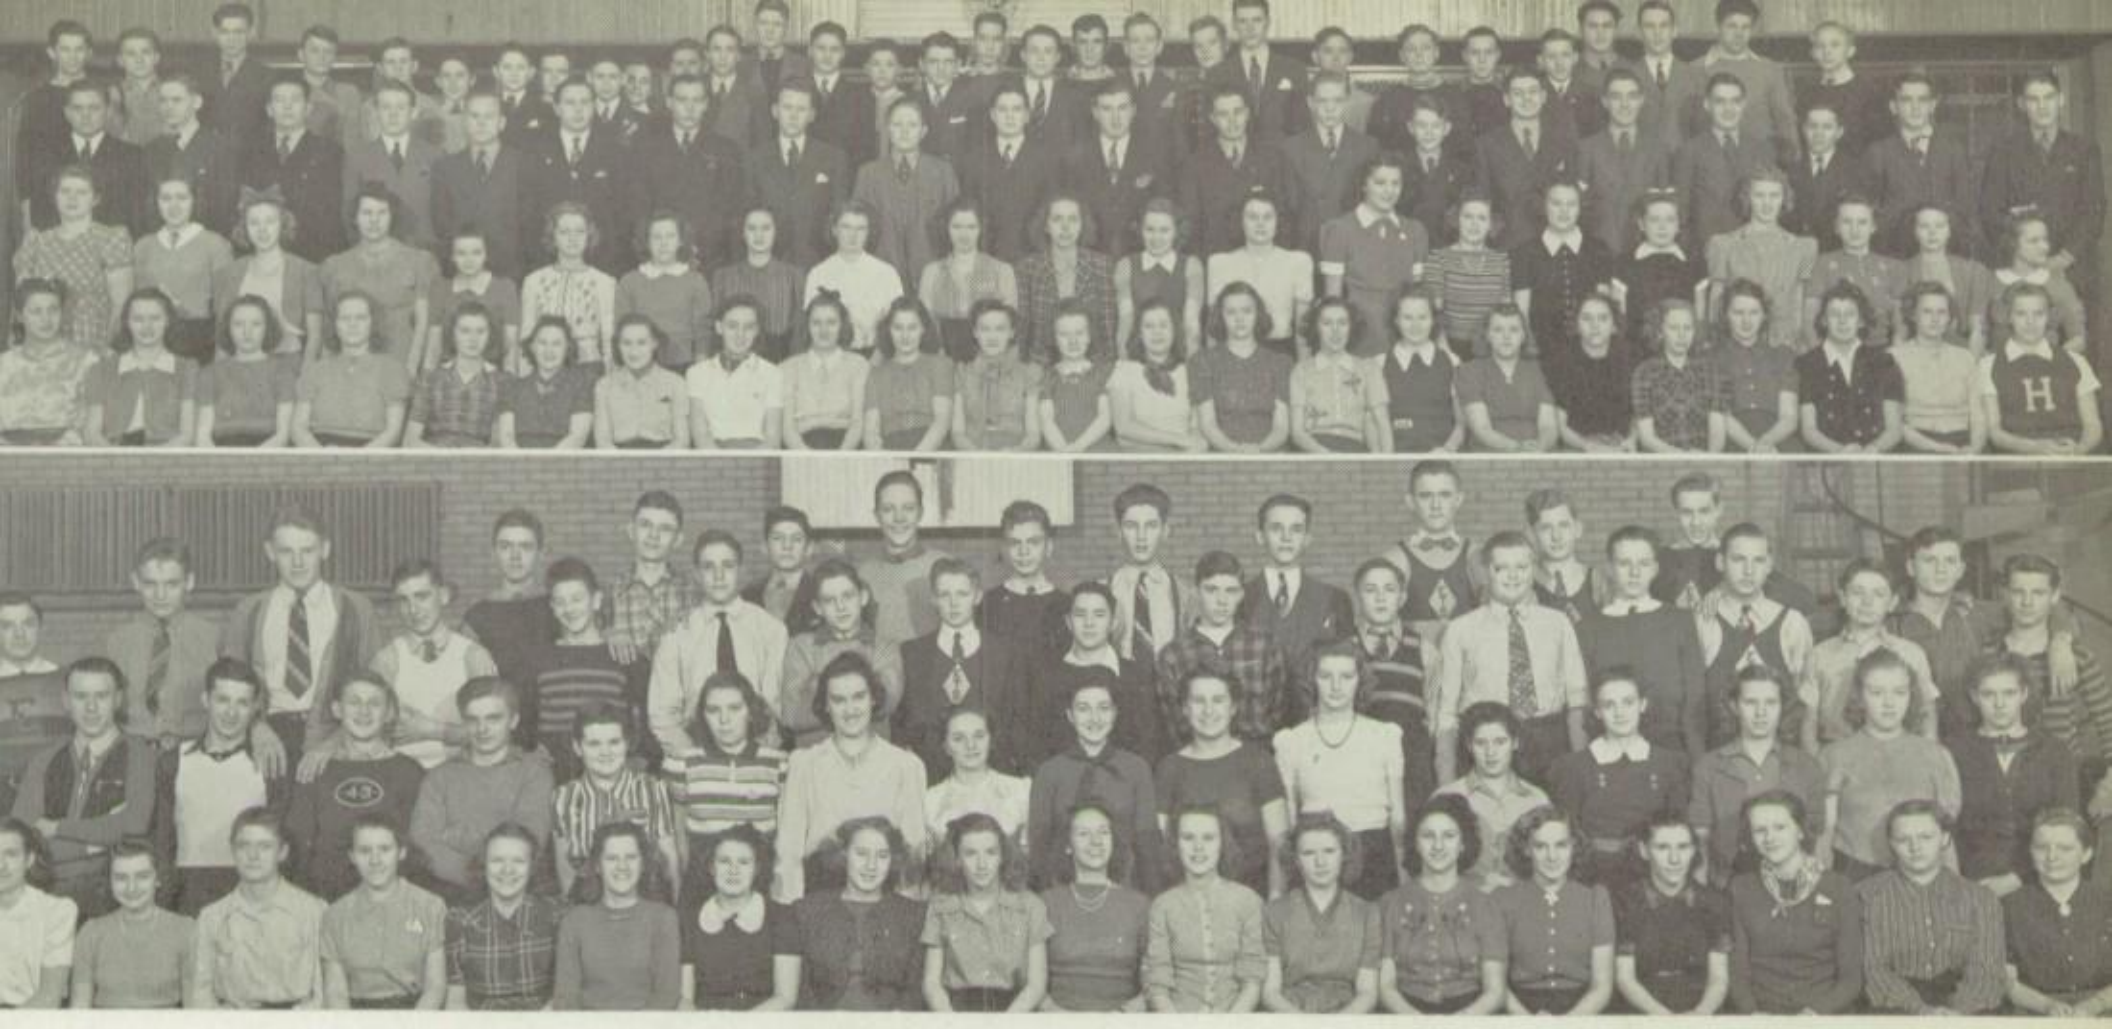
Lakewood High for Tomorrow

Though tomorrow is but a dream, for many it may be a fullfillment of their ambitions. Whatever a person's plans are, he should grasp each opportunity to prepare himself, confident that he will realize his hopes. It is natural then, that Lakewood High School includes in its program certain activities which aid in this preparation. Because intelligent leadership is invaluable in the modern world, our school offers this experience on Student Government Day. The classes are conducted by student representatives with varying degrees of success, to be sure. Even the duties of the principal and assistants are managed by students on this day. However, while this is giving valuable practice in leadership to some, it develops a sense of honor in all the pupils.

Another activity comparable to Student Government Day is the honor study hall, where students are released from teacher supervision. The success of the study hall depends upon each individual and his attitude towards this miniature democracy. Concerts and trips to the art museum and playhouse lighten the year's schedule and further the attainment of culture and appreciation of the fine arts. Mother-Daughter and Father-Son Banquets find many excellent orators among the pupils. While the parents enjoy these activities of their sons and daughters, they are unconsciously witnessing a growth in poise and self-reliance. The newly installed public address system is another aid to speakers and actors which symbolizes a material advance in methods of teaching.



Graduating classes from the three junior high schools, January, 1940.

Today's 10-B's Will Be Tomorrow's Leaders

Left—Jean Gross acted as dean of girls at annual student government day, during which time students took the place of administrators and teachers.

Right—To help form better citizens, a 12-B civics class visited a voting booth during November elections.

Plans for Tomorrow

Studied by the Lakewood Board of Education

Principal John C. Mitchell looks over plans for new stadium, and other proposed additions to Lakewood High equipment.

The blurred images become more and more distinct as the crystal ball revolves and the visions of tomorrow appear. First comes a large building, a stadium. The football field and the stone bleachers on the west side are familiar to any student at Lakewood High. But this stadium is larger, with an extended circular track where the hill formerly was. On the east side are concrete stands reenforced with steel that seat about four thousand spectators. Underneath these are the dressing rooms complete with showers. The clearness of this picture suggests that the construction might be completed by fall, even to the last tile pipe in the herring-bone drainage system. A faint outline of night lights may be seen encircling the stadium, but their light shadow shows that these are still just vague plans. As this vision fades, another group replaces it. These next scenes show the changes in the interior of our building. The halls and classrooms do not have the dark, semi-gloomy appearance of today, for the latest system of indirect lighting brightens the rooms and eliminates the unpleasant glare of direct lighting. Teachers no longer hold student conferences in the halls, but retire to their own rooms where they can be found at any time during the day. The old auditorium has vanished and in its place a fine new concert hall has been built which will seat all the student body at one time. Here, the commencements, symphony concerts, and dramatic productions are presented. Students do not need to shiver from the cold chill of wintry air which now fills the passage-way between the main building and the men's building. This wooden shed has been destroyed, for a permanent arcade connects both floors of the two buildings. Another passage-way connects the men's building with the women's building. However, all these visions are just prophecies of what might happen in the future—maybe ten years from today, maybe twenty. And yet many of these Utopian plans are being seriously considered by our Board of Education at the present time.

Progress . . . .

Financially as well as pictorially, the 1940 Cinema has been a success. Because the Cinema costs much more to put out than you paid for it, the following merchants are greatly responsible for this success. They represent the leading merchants of Lakewood and Cleveland. Patronize them.
